

Alaska 200 Club

29th Report

2010

The Alaska 200 Club emblem portrays a Steller's Jay, Cyanocitta stelleri stelleri [Gmelin, 1778 {Vancouver Island, British Columbia}], new to ornithology in July 1741 when discovered at Kayak Island (Southcoastal Alaska) by George Wilhelm Steller. This find convinced Steller that the expedition had indeed reached the New World, and in a manner, establishing the Steller's Jay as the first bird to the Alaska list. In the background is the vessel Saint Peter which carried Bering, Steller, and contingent to Alaska.

TWENTY-NINTH REPORT OF THE ALASKA 200 CLUB

The Alaska 200 Club, formed in 1979, is a membership of people that have recorded 200 or more species of birds, wild, alive and unrestrained in Alaska (Charter members = Roster #'s 1 – 12). This report summarizes 200 Club data through the end of 2009 and includes all 2009 updates that were sent to us by January 10, 2010.

The Club roster stood at 257 members at the end of 2008. Two members joined the club in 2009: Brad Benter (#258) and David Smith (#259). David Sonneborn remains at the top of the list; still the only birder to have reported seeing more than 400 species in Alaska. Members who submitted data in 2009 indicating that they had reached the 300 species plateau included Brad Benter, Larry Peavler and David Porter. Forty members of the club have now reached that level.

Table 1 summarizes the membership ranking at the end of 2009, based on species total, and includes the year of each member's most recent update. Sixty-eight members provided updates for this report.

The Alaska 200 Club follows the CHECKLIST OF ALASKA BIRDS, including the "Unsubstantiated list" (but excluding species introduced or of questioned origin). This list is compiled by the Alaska Checklist Committee and is maintained by the University of Alaska. Changes that will be made to the 16th edition of the Checklist in 2010 include two new species added to the main list (Eurasian Collared-Dove and Marsh Wren) and one to the Unsubstantiated List (Solitary Snipe); see "2009 Changes to the Checklist of Alaska Birds" at the end of this report for details. With these additions the main list now stands at 489 species, plus 25 on the unsubstantiated list. The Checklist can be found by using the link to the UAF Museum website on the Alaska 200 Club website.

All communications regarding the Alaska 200 Club should be sent to Steve Zimmerman either by e-mail (stevezimmerman@gci.net) or to: P.O. Box 20058, Juneau, Alaska 99802. This list is only updated once per year. Please send updates for the next report in December, 2010, or no later than January 10, 2011.

2009 CHANGES TO THE CHECKLIST OF ALASKA BIRDS

Courtesy of Daniel D. Gibson

Alaska Checklist Committee decisions in 2009 of interest to the Alaska 200 Club were few: two species have been added to the main list--Eurasian Collared-Dove Streptopelia decaocto [Casual: numerous records, recent years, by many observers/photographers]; and Marsh Wren Cistothorus palustris [Accidental: lone bird, 25 and 28 October 2009, Palmer Hay Flats, seen/photographed by D. L. Crowson, R. A. Winckler, and B. L. Friest). And one species was added to the unsubstantiated list (Solitary Snipe Gallinago solitaria [St. Paul Island, Pribilof Islands, 2008--see Bieber and Schuette, N. Am. Birds 63:178-181, 2009]). These changes will be reflected in the 16th AKCL, that will be posted early in 2010 UA Museum website.

There are numerous other changes in the 16th edition to include changed status for a few species, as well as various systematic and nomenclatural changes to follow AOU Check-list, etc., but no others that will be of immediate importance to AK200 Club. Total species on the main Alaska list is now 489, plus 25 on the unsubstantiated list.

In related news, Aaron Lang has agreed to join Dan Gibson, Thede Tobish and Steve Heintl on the Alaska Checklist Committee.
