

Alaska 200 Club

10th Report

1988

The Alaska 200 Club emblem portrays a Steller's Jay, Cyanocitta stelleri stelleri [Gmelin, 1778 {Vancouver Island, British Columbia}], new to ornithology in July 1741 when discovered at Kayak Island (Southcoastal Alaska) by George Wilhelm Steller. This find convinced Steller that the expedition had indeed reached the New World, and in a manner, establishing the Steller's Jay as the first bird to the Alaska list. In the background is the vessel Saint Peter which carried Bering, Steller, and contingent to Alaska.

TENTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE ALASKA 200 CLUB (THROUGH 1988)

The member's name, emblem number, and US state or Canadian province of residence are followed by the member's Alaska species total as of 31 December 1988. (The present state total is 430 species.) The last column is the year when the member joined, followed parenthetically by the year when the most recent addition was posted. Asterisks identify former Alaskans. Please check your information to make sure that I have it listed correctly.

To join the Alaska 200 Club, simply send a list of the bird species that you have seen to: Robert H. Day, Alaska 200 Club, [address redacted] (my personal mail box). Also include a check made out to Robert Day for $11. (I have equalized the cost for all new members.) For any of the species on the Alaska checklist that have a mark beside them (i.e., accidental, casual, or rare), please include details that can be evaluated. Upon acceptance of your list, I will send you a 200 Club patch and a patch number. I am following the official Alaska state list as kept by Brina Kessel and Dan Gibson of the University of Alaska Museum; hence, Rock Dove is not countable for the 200 Club. At the end of the year, please send me a list of the new species that you have seen and your total number as of the end of this year. If you want to order replacement or extra patches, please send a check for $8 each to me at the above address. Begun on 22 October 1979 by 12 Charter Members, the Alaska 200 Club comprised 114 members at the close of 1988, admitting eight new members this year.

With best wishes for all of us to see at least five new Alaska species this year-----

--Bob

P.S. Does anybody know the present address of Charles W. and Mary A. Gambill, Paul Sykes, or William Bouton? I have been unable to send recent 200 Club updates to them.

1988 ADDITIONS TO THE ALASKA STATE LIST (COURTESY OF DANIEL GIBSON, UAM)

- *429: Yellow-breasted Bunting at Attu Island, western Aleutians, 26 May 1988 (specimen at UAM)
- *430: Prairie Warbler at Middleton Island, northern Gulf of Alaska, 22 September 1988 (specimen at UAM)

Unsubstantiated list: Great Tit at Little Diomedede Island, northern Bering Sea, September 1988 (USFWS, details to DDG)
