

Alaska 200 Club

6th Report

1984

The Alaska 200 Club emblem portrays a Steller's Jay, Cyanocitta stelleri stelleri [Gmelin, 1778 {Vancouver Island, British Columbia}], new to ornithology in July 1741 when discovered at Kayak Island (Southcoastal Alaska) by George Wilhelm Steller. This find convinced Steller that the expedition had indeed reached the New World, and in a manner, establishing the Steller's Jay as the first bird to the Alaska list. In the background is the vessel Saint Peter which carried Bering, Steller, and contingent to Alaska.

SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE ALASKA "200" CLUB

Name, emblem number, and U.S. state or Canadian province of residence are followed by member's Alaska species total as of 31 December 1984. Percentage is based on State total of 410 species (species on Alaska's Unsubstantiated List included in a member's total are not included in percentage [%], since they are not part of the State total). Last column is year when member joined, followed parenthetically by year when most recent addition was posted. Asterisks identify former Alaskans. Dagger denotes the highest-ranking member who has never visited the Aleutians or any Bering Sea islands. Begun on 22 October 1979 by 12 charter members, the Alaska "200" Club comprised 69 members at the close of 1984.
