8th Report 1986

The Alaska 200 Club emblem portrays a Steller's Jay, Cyanocitta stelleri stelleri [Gmelin, 1778 {Vancouver Island, British Columbia}], new to ornithology in July 1741 when discovered at Kayak Island (Southcoastal Alaska) by George Wilhelm Steller. This find convinced Steller that the expedition had indeed reached the New World, and in a manner, establishing the Steller's Jay as the first bird to the Alaska list. In the background is the vessel Saint Peter which carried Bering, Steller, and contingent to Alaska.

EIGHTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE ALASKA "200" CLUB

Name, emblem number, and U.S. state or Canadian province of residence are followed by member's Alaska species total as of 31 December 1986.

Percentage is based on State total of 424 species. Species on the Unsubstantiated List included in a member's total are not included in percentage ( $\neq$ ), since they do not form part of the State total.

Last column is year when member joined, followed parenthetically by year when most recent addition was posted.

Asterisks identify former Alaskans,

† denotes the highest-ranking member who has never visited the Aleutians or any Bering Sea islands, and ‡ denotes the only member who has photographed over 200 species in the State (208 at end 1986): Begun on 22 October 1979 by 12 charter members, the Alaska

"200" Club comprised 86 members at the close of 1986.

As of January 1987, Alaska "200" Club records will be maintained by Bob Day, taking over for Dan Gibson, who has maintained them since the club's beginning. Some of you have not kept contact with the club, making it difficult to keep an accurate and up-to-date list; others have sent bird information to Dan Gibson at the University of Alaska Museum, but have not specified "200" Club additions. We would appreciate it if those of you who fall in either category would update your lists at the end of 1987 and thereafter. To ask questions, provide answers, or obtain additional information, please address correspondence to Robert H. Day, [address redacted]

Good Birding in 1987!
