

Alaska 200 Club

42nd Report

2022

The Alaska 200 Club emblem portrays a Steller's Jay, Cyanocitta stelleri stelleri [Gmelin, 1778 {Vancouver Island, British Columbia}], new to ornithology in July 1741 when discovered at Kayak Island (Southcoastal Alaska) by George Wilhelm Steller. This find convinced Steller that the expedition had indeed reached the New World, and in a manner, establishing the Steller's Jay as the first bird to the Alaska list. In the background is the vessel Saint Peter which carried Bering, Steller, and contingent to Alaska.

FORTY-SECOND REPORT OF THE ALASKA 200 CLUB

The Alaska 200 Club, formed in 1979, is a membership of people that have recorded 200 or more species of birds, wild, alive, and unrestrained in Alaska (Charter members= Roster numbers 1-12). This report summarizes 200 Club data through the end of 2022 and includes all 2022 updates that were sent to Club Administrators by January 10, 2023.

The Club Roster stood at 325 members at the end of 2022. Two new members joined the Club in 2022: Karen Johnson (326) and Nicole Koeltzow (327). No members reported reaching the 300 species threshold in 2022 and it remains at sixty-seven. Five members have reached the 400 species level and are led by David Sonneborn at 426 species. We were made aware of one member passing in 2022.

Table1 summarizes the membership ranking at the end of 2022, based on species total, and includes the year of each member's most recent update. We heard from 82 members in 2022, of which 45 members had updates for us to record. This is the lowest number of updates for individual Club members in years!

Daniel Gibson (Member #3) was kind enough to offer editorial corrections on the spelling of members' names. The Assistant Administrator is very appreciative of his remarks. We continue to update the tally of members who photograph birds in Alaska. If you are a photographer, please let us know how many birds you have photographed!

The Alaska 200 Club follows the CHECKLIST OF ALASKA BIRDS, including "Unsubstantiated List" (but excluding species introduced or of questionable origin). This list is compiled by the Alaska Checklist Committee and is maintained by the University of Alaska.

Changes that were added to the 29th edition of the Checklist in 2022 (and therefore were counted in members' totals for this report) include seven new species added to the main list: Least Tern, Wedge-tailed Shearwater, Icterine Warbler, Citrine Wagtail, Chestnut-collared Longspur, Lucy's Warbler and Blackburnian Warbler. Stonechat (Saxicola torquatus) has been split into three species. The Asian Stonechat (S. maurus) is the species which has been documented for Alaska. With these changes the Checklist will stand at 541 species, and 17 species on the "Unsubstantiated List".

Thanks go out to Daniel D. Gibson and members of the Alaska Checklist Committee for keeping the Alaska 200 Club abreast of these changes. For a full discussion on the Changes to the Checklist of Alaska Birds go to the Ornithology Department at the Museum of the North-UAF.

An abridged report of the Changes to the 29th edition of the Checklist of Alaska Birds follows this section. The Checklist can be found at the University of Alaska Museum of the North Ornithology Department's web page. Blackburnian Warbler Photographed in a Ketchikan neighborhood between 28-29 October by Steve Heinl (#150), Buzz Scher (#49), and B. Limle.

OTHER CHANGES

Stonechat split into three species by the American Ornithological Society (63rd supplement) R. Terry Chesser et.al, African Stonechat, European Stonechat and the species recorded in Alaska, Asian Stonechat.

Nicholas Hajdukovich continues as Administrator for the Alaska 200 Club. Ed Clark continues in the role of Assistant Administrator.

All new club member submissions, patches or patch replacements should be directed to Nick Hajdukovich (nhajdukovich@icloud.com) or 229 Iditarod Avenue Fairbanks, Alaska 99701.

Member's updates, changes in their e-mail addresses, death notifications, etc., should be sent to Ed Clark (alaskabirder@outlook.com).

Please send updates to the Assistant Administrator no later than 10 January 2024 to be included in the 2023 update. If you were not personally contacted by Ed in Late December 2022 or early January 2023, we do not have a current valid e-mail for you. Get in touch with us!
